FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Northern Trust Announced as Nashville Opera Impresario Council Exclusive Sponsor

Wealth management company expands presence in the Nashville market with Opera partnership

NASHVILLE, Tennessee, Sept. 12, 2022

Nashville Opera proudly announces a new partnership with Chicago-based Northern Trust as exclusive sponsor of the Impresario Council, the Opera's annual leadership giving society. With this, Northern Trust establishes their first joint venture with a Nashville arts organization.

In addition to the Impresario Council, Northern Trust is underwriter of the upcoming production of La Bohème, which opens the 2022-23 Ann & Frank Bumstead Season on September 22nd at TPAC's Andrew Jackson Hall.

"Northern Trust is honored to sponsor the 2022-2023 season at Nashville Opera, one of the most important artistic organizations for Nashville, presenting works of the highest caliber," said John Fumagalli, Northern Trust Central Region President.

"For nearly three decades, Northern Trust has served clients in Nashville and the surrounding areas, and our partnership with Nashville Opera builds on our commitment to this community. We know that a robust arts scene leads to a healthy and vibrant community, and Northern Trust is pleased that this sponsorship will support Nashville Opera in continuing to provide excellent artistic experiences to communities across Middle Tennessee."

John Hoopes, CEO and Artistic Director of Nashville Opera, adds, "It's because of forward-thinking companies like Northern Trust that we're able to present the beautiful, passionate, sometimes challenging works Nashville Opera has become known for since its founding in 1981."

Nashville Opera's 2022-2023 season begins with Puccini's La Bohème in September, continues with the company premieres of Gian Carlo Menotti's The Medium at Halloween and Byron Au Yong's Stuck Elevator in January, and closes with Gilbert & Sullivan's The Pirates of Penzance in April.
